

The JCU Institute for Entrepreneurship presents:

Oliver Page

Co-Founder & CEO of Scooterino

The first scooter ridesharing solution in Europe.

Oliver founded his first start up, Nutkase Accessories, at the age of 17 when he was an IB student in Rome, Italy. What was once a student start up has turned into an international company with sales to hundreds of companies and schools in over 35 countries.

After his 1st year of university in the UK, Oliver moved to Silicon Valley to attend The Draper University of Heroes, a school for entrepreneurs founded by one of the leading venture capitalists, Tim Draper. 18 months later, Oliver returned to Italy and cofounded Scooterino, a ride sharing start up. Scooterino won a grant from the European Space Agency and has received funding from a pool of investors in Italy and the US.

Thursday, February 25th

10:00 - 11:15

Guest Speaker BUS 410

Room: T.2.2

RSVP: entrepreneurship@johncabot.edu