

Elizabeth Polich is from Chicago, Illinois and is majoring in International Studies and Italian at American University. For the fall 2009 semester she is studying abroad at John Cabot University in Rome, hoping to perfect her Italian language skills as well as learn more about the European Union and economic affairs. Elizabeth is also a sister of the Alpha Epsilon Phi sorority at American University and is involved with the Model United Nations club. She hopes to attend graduate school to study European Economic Affairs.
