SUMMER INSTITUTES

Summer institutes enhance summer courses at no additional cost. Institute events, dinners, and lectures feature prominent novelists, poets, journalists, and business professionals.

SUMMER INSTITUTE • SESSION 1

The Institute for Creative Writing and Literary Translation has fostered a thriving writing community in Rome. Summer Writers in Residence have included Billy Collins, Joyce Carol Oates and Jhumpa Lahiri.

SUMMER INSTITUTE • SESSION 2

The Institute for International Communication brings together students and faculty from around the world to study communications in the home of Cicero. Each session focuses on a current critical issue in international communications and ends with a lively public speaking tournament.

LIVING IN ROME

Located in Trastevere, an enchanting neighborhood along the Tiber River, John Cabot is minutes from Vatican City and steps from Rome’s bustling center.

Students reside in a secure, furnished, and air-conditioned residence hall close to classrooms, the library, the dining hall, and the fitness facility.

Mixing with Roman residents, students become immersed in Italian culture, visiting museums and open-air markets and using their blossoming Italian vocabulary while dining al fresco at nearby cafes.
