New Italian Government Decree: MANDATORY CURFEW
22 October 2020

Dear JCU Students,

The Region of Lazio has issued a new ordinance this morning and JCU is in full compliance with these regulations. However, we would like to inform you that this new decree implements a mandatory curfew of 12midnight to 5am. Starting tonight, and for the next 30 days (until November 21st), you must be at your personal place of residence between 12midnight and 5am daily. JCU expects all students living in a JCU residence to be scanned into their residence by 12midnight from now on. Any exception to this rule must first be cleared by the Dean of Students office.

Exiting your residence between 12midnight and 5am is permissible only for urgent work or medical reasons. If you must leave your residence for an essential work or medical need, you must fill-out and carry with you an auto-certificazione (Self-Declaration) form at all times, which you can find in the original decree. An English translation of the form can be found on the last page of this message. Municipal officials may ask to see the form if you are out past curfew. Breaking this curfew rule may result in legal penalties, including monetary fines.

Please see the original decree

We remind you that JCU strongly discourages travel outside of Rome this semester as regional and international travel regulations and guidelines, including mandatory testing and quarantine requirements to enter or exit a country, continue to change on a weekly and even daily basis. You could suddenly find yourself in complicated circumstances without notice when traveling.

If you NEED to travel for urgent reasons, please make sure to fully investigate the testing and quarantine requirements.

For those living in JCU housing, please remember that if you choose to travel outside Lazio, and upon re-entry to Rome, you are mandated to produce a negative COVID swab test or quarantine for 14 days, you cannot return to JCU housing until you have complied with these testing and quarantine requirements. Italy now mandates a COVID swab test for persons coming from France, U.K. and Spain, to name a few. Students cannot quarantine in JCU housing for personal travel reasons. JCU is unable to provide you COVID swab test for travel purposes, whether for leaving or reentering Italy.

We are asking all students living in JCU housing to submit their travel plans, every time they leave Rome, at the following link: https://cm.maxient.com/reportingform.php?JohnCabotUniv&layout_id=6. This information helps us to keep a clear record of students' whereabouts so we can interface or assist them for an urgent need. Please know that this is for internal use only and unless there is an emergency will not be share with anyone.

As a final reminder, if you are experiencing any flu-like symptoms and/or have been in close contact with someone who is COVID positive please call the JCU Emergency phone +39 331 656 1907 immediately.
